The fifth graders at Pocomoke Middle School were very excited to go to the Veteran's War Memorial. The memorial was very beautiful. First, my class learned flag etiquette. We learned about why a flag is at half mast and what red, white and blue stand for. Then, we split up into groups of four and went on a scavenger hunt. We would have a name on a card and what section they were in and we would have to find them on a brick or pavers. Last, we went to learn how to properly fold the American flag. You fold it just like you would fold a paper football. It was so much fun! I would like to go to the memorial again!
